Falcon Heights Inclusion and Policing Task Force
Participant Process Agreement

Proposed for Adoption by Task Force January 3, 2017

This Participant Process Agreement is a complement to the charge given by the Falcon Heights City Council to the Task Force and to the guidance given by the City Attorney and city staff regarding open meetings laws, communication with the public and media and others on behalf of the task force, and other policies governing City of Falcon Heights bodies. This agreement documents the mutually agreed principles that the task force members have adopted for their participation, process, and engagement.

Active participation

The Task Force will have many meetings because we have ambitious goals, and the work requires a high level of sustained work and commitment. Members are expected to fully participate in all meetings, to arrive prepared by having reviewed the relevant materials, and to remain at the table to hear the full discussions in order to make informed judgments when decision making occurs. Should a Task Force member feel unsafe to express themselves or feel that an unusual burden is being placed on them to defend or represent a view or group, he or she is welcomed to step out of the meeting and consult with one of the facilitators.

The expectation is that each member will attend at least 75% of all Task Force meetings. In the event that illness or another demand occasionally interferes with participation, members are encouraged to provide their input to a co-chair in advance of any meeting they will be unable to attend, and must accept that the group will proceed with decision-making in their absence.

Community connections

Participation in Task Force meetings will be restricted to members, unless the co-chairs set aside time for an invited guest or other input.

In conjunction with the Task Force meetings proper, there will be series of facilitated community dialogues in which any members of the interested public will be encouraged to provide their perspectives to inform the work of the Task Force.
Task Force members speak for themselves, not on behalf of or as representatives of other groups. Members are very strongly encouraged to communicate actively with their connections in the community, to keep them informed about the deliberations and to seek their input.

Learning environment

The Task Force has responsibilities to articulate community values, guide well-informed understanding of issues, and craft meaningful and sustainable solutions. To accomplish those goals, members are expected to strive to bridge gaps in understanding, to seek creative resolution of differences, and to engage thoughtfully in sharing their knowledge and learning with one another. Task Force members agree to be active learners where values and experiences diverge, to view those differences as a source of strength and opportunity for their own learning. Members will also strive to not overburden some members with the responsibility to educate, explain, or do most of the emotional labor of the group’s work on difficult issues.

To facilitate an open and collaborative discussion, members agree to: speak to their interests and concerns; ask questions and promote group learning; actively listen and be open to changing their mind; contribute to discussion without simply re-stating positions; and be mindful of how long they speak and ensure that all voices are heard. Members are asked to speak their own truth, keep an open mind, and not make assumptions about others’ views or what groups or views do and do not represent. Members are expected to communicate concerns, interests, and ideas openly and to make the reasons for their statements and any disagreements clear. Where there are conflicts, members are asked to address their concerns directly to the person(s) with whom they have concerns, in the meeting or soon afterwards. Alternatively, they may request the assistance of the facilitators.

Trust and risk-taking are essential to discovering opportunities to affirm inclusion in the community, strengthen connections, and to promote and sustain reform. Task force members request and grant permission of one another to try on ideas, to ask questions, and to have misunderstandings. Members agree to assume the best of one another, to give credit where it is due, to take risks by sharing what is really important to them, to be ready to change their minds, to admit mistakes, and to attempt to remedy misunderstandings. Trust will be strengthened by a combination of genuine caring, open communication, consistency between word and deed and over time, and competence in speaking from a well-informed place.
Consensus orientation

Task Force members are diverse in terms of identities, life experiences, and interests. This is a rich asset for creative problem solving and for the legitimacy of the Task Force, provided that members listen actively and openly, speak for their own views, and sustain a commitment to exploration, learning, and finding solutions.

If members have serious reservations with a proposed outcome or approach to decision-making, they should express and explain their reservations and make every effort to craft an alternative that is mutually agreeable. The group will reach consensus on an issue when it agrees upon a proposal and each member can honestly say all of the following: I believe that other members understand my point of view; I believe I understand other members’ points of view; and whether or not I prefer this decision, I support it because it was arrived at openly and fairly and it is the best solution for us at this time.

The group will strive for consensus, on the principle that engaging different views and perspectives produces better informed, more transformative solutions with greater legitimacy and staying power. To the extent that the Task Force generates consensus, members agree to support and advocate for those decisions.

Information

Task force members may want additional information to guide their deliberations, for example in the forms of data, an issues brief, a consultation with a content matter expert, or a consultation with a person who can provide a missing and crucial perspective on the problem or implementation of solutions. Members will convey those requests to the city administrator, preferably as soon as they recognize the need. The city administrator will work with the design team to try to find resources to address the need.

Facilitation

Facilitation will be provided by Ken Morris and Kathy Quick, who are part of a larger design team which includes skilled individuals who are helping with overall process organization, finding resources, and facilitating the community dialogues. The purpose of facilitation is to support the Task Force to engage in creative, courageous deliberation that generates meaningful and sustainable progress on high-stakes issues. The facilitators will advocate for a fair, effective, and credible process, but remain neutral with respect to the specific substantive outcomes of the deliberations. The facilitators will work with the co-chairs to create an overall process design and agendas for each meeting; facilitate meetings (or parts of meetings) as requested by the co-chairs; provide support for members; identify and synthesize points of agreement and discrepancy and provide guidance to discover creative, sustainable problem-solving; and monitor and support compliance with this participant process agreement.

We the undersigned agree to abide by this participant process agreement for the Falcon Heights Inclusion and Policing Task Force.
